Synergy programs for Team Connection

Unify your organization as strategic problem-solvers with engaging programs focused on creativity, innovation, and communication.

1. Expand mental agility and lateral thinking
2. Evolve cohesive team spirit and trust
3. Realize the strategic benefits of interdependence
4. Practice clear, productive communication
5. Rally your team around a shared vision

Action Steps

Action Steps takes participants through a series of increasingly difficult, fun and engaging challenges. It helps teams form for the first time, or reform, a critical stage in team development where relationships are solidified and trust is established. We discuss critical factors for high performing team, then groups move outside to focus on these factors and practice skill building through a series of creative and engaging problem-solving activities. Synergy facilitators guide the development of "action steps" by creating effective decision-making, communication, and team development tools. Teams may face a large web of rope, and need to successfully pass their team members through without touching the web. Blindfolded team members might be guided along a path with non-verbal signals to lead them to safely travel through different types of terrain. Each program ends with a group discussion on key learnings and an action planning session.

True Colors

What do we need people to understand about us? What are our strengths? What stresses and frustrates us?

True Colors helps participants develop an understanding of their team's learning and working style in order to be more effective together. The program equips participants with the appropriate perspectives and skills necessary to successfully manage relationships based on an understanding of style preferences. The module achieves this through a combination of self-assessments, individual and group exercises, and various group discussions. Teams gain a new familiarity and understanding of one another, and learn the communication it takes to tackle challenges more effectively.

Participants are given a series of questions. After self-scoring, participants then are given their "true color" style preference – Blue, Green, Orange or Gold, with associated information. Facilitators then lead the groups through a series of large group discussions to highlight individual's primary styles. Finally, each group presents
